To Register: Go to outreach.olemiss.edu/study_usa/how_to_apply.html

Itinerary subject to change. Students should wait to make travel arrangements after confirming dates and times with instructor.

Students will:

- Learn advanced applications of geological engineering field instruments and techniques
- Enhance geologic observation and interpretation skills
- Prepare geologic and engineering reports, maps, and figures
- Work on geologic engineering mapping exercises on topics like hydrology, environmental applications, hazards engineering, and more
- Explore the historic and unique town of Santa Fe

Location:

Students will spend two weeks in and around Santa Fe, New Mexico. Shared accommodations in the residence hall at St. John's College will be provided.

Who should go?

This program is for geology and geological engineering majors. Students must have successfully completed GE 301, GEOL 303, GEOL 305, and ENGR 340.

Dates:

Students will travel to Santa Fe, New Mexico, for arrival on Sunday, July 30 and depart on Sunday, August 13, 2016.

Travel:

Students will make their own travel arrangements to and from Santa Fe. Students can fly into either Albuquerque International Sunport (ABQ) or Santa Fe Municipal Airport (SAF). From Albuquerque, students must make arrangements for travel to Santa Fe, either by private vehicle or via Sandia Shuttle. Group ground transportation in Santa Fe will be provided.

Costs:

Program cost is $1,695 plus tuition (non-resident students who are ineligible for Academic Common Market waivers due to residency will receive a Study USA waiver for the non-resident fee). Included in the cost are housing, group ground transportation, meals, selected course materials, tours, and admission fees. Excluded from the cost are the Study USA application fee, tuition, travel expenses to/from New Mexico, and personal spending money.

Admission to this course requires the submission of a writing sample to the instructor. Students interested in this course must email a writing sample to Jeanine Rauch, mjrauch@olemiss.edu, to gain her approval for the course. Please contact the instructor for more information on this requirement.*
